This talk tells a story about how and why Professor Glumac ended up on several small islands in the western Pacific exploring caves and hiking through the jungle. This is a multifaceted story about fascinating stone artifacts known as Yapese Stone Money told from the perspective of a geologist interested in archaeology, also touching upon geography, history, politics, economics and culture of Micronesia. Pizza will be provided based on number of RSVPs.

Monday, June 16, 12:00 – 1:00 PM
McConnell 103